Radiant Constellations – Where Hope, Care, and Connection Belong.

What if each person carries an inner sky of lived experience, and when we meet, new constellations briefly emerge? The artworks in Radiant Constellations by Novisali at art3f in Paris unfolds from this idea. A visually rich exploration of hope, connection, and direction in a world shaped by acceleration and fragmentation. The artworks in Radiant Constellations brings together works from Novisali's series Human Cartography and Hopepunk.

Hopepunk carries the spirit of radical hope: not naïve optimism, but courageous endurance, light held steady through cracks, care practiced as an act of resistance. Human Cartography traces how we move through time, memory, and contemporary life, across landscapes that shape encounter and belonging. Together, the artworks form a luminous constellation of relationships and renewal. Color becomes orientation rather than decoration; light becomes a language of presence. The artworks invite viewers into a space where connection is felt rather than explained, and where we can recognize ourselves in one another, without needing to become the same.

Novisali (Liselotte Engstam) is an international artist from Sweden exploring hope, guardianship, and the invisible in-between, where belonging and meaning take shape. Symbolic portals, human and animal guardians, and dreamlike zones evoke resilience and care, reflecting our fragile yet powerful place in nature and time.

She reimagines her original hand-painted watercolours with image capture and visual refinement, realising them as unique single-edition works on reusable aluminum with a luminous surface that heightens visual presence and endures over time. Selected works are further extended with moving images and augmented reality, allowing a visual extension to unfold over time.
